What everyone should know about insuring property in storage--

The other day while flipping through the channels I stumbled upon a reality show about people who bid on items in abandoned storage units- sometimes finding items valued in the tens of thousands of dollars. I thought of my family and friends who had storage units and the kinds of items they kept in there- and it ran the gamut from golf clubs to furniture to ski equipment. According to the Self Storage Association, 10.8 million people in the US rent a self-storage unit. If you're one of those 10.8 million people you should ask yourself, do I have insurance coverage for my property in storage? read more . . .

Peace of mind for things that shine!

Suddenly, you notice a diamond is missing from your wedding ring, your toddler throws your watch in the toilet, or your bracelet slips off while you are swimming in the ocean.

For losses like these, there is no coverage on your homeowners policy. However, if you schedule your jewelry on a personal articles floater attached to your homeowners policy, then there is coverage for many more perils, and all of the above scenarios would be covered. read more . . .
